OAP IN AIRGUN ATTACK ON BUS

Woman injured – but police take 40 minutes to arrive

by DANIEL KNOWLES

shrapnel in the face. She was in some pain."

Mr Hedges said the bus driver pulled over and hit his alarm but the police did not turn up for more than 40 minutes.

"It was absolutely atrocious," Mr Hedges said. "For them to take 40 minutes is unacceptable."

By the time the police arrived, Mr Hedges claimed, another K2 bus passed the stop and most of the passengers left before they could be interviewed.

"They took a statement from me, and another lady and the injured lady," Mr Hedges said. "An ambulance took the injured lady away. The bus driver was in complete shock."

He said the injured woman had been standing or her injuries could have been much worse.

"If it had hit head height someone could have been blinded or worse," Mr Hedges said.

The injured woman was so shaken by the incident she had to call her daughter to the bus stop for help, Mr Hedges said.

He said he and Piper had been on the bus, which runs from Kingston Hospital to Hook library, coming home from Piper's swimming lessons.

"I get the bus two or three times a week and I have never seen anything like this," Mr Hedges said.

A Kingston police spokeswoman said officers were investigating the shooting. Police contacted the victim on Sunday and said she was recovering well.

The spokeswoman appealed for anyone with information to call Kingston safer transport team on 020 8721 5849.

An elderly woman was injured when a bus carrying more than 30 passengers was fired at with a pellet gun.

The K2 bus was turning into Berrylands Road from Ewell Road in Surbiton when it came under fire about 5.15pm on Friday.

One pellet slammed through a large side window, shattering it and showering the elderly woman with glass.

Passenger Rolf Hedges was on the bus with his four-year-old daughter Piper, when the slug shattered the window.

"There was a huge crack," self-employed businessman Mr Hedges said. "There was a woman who got glass

Big top at school

Children from across New Malden spent an afternoon clowning around with the Cirque de Normandy when it visited Corpus Christi Catholic Primary School with its big top on Saturday.

Lots of laughter and squirting of water accompanied acrobats, jugglers, trapeze artists and plate spinners on the day. Proceeds have gone towards building sun shelters at the school to protect pupils in the summer heat.

Council's signature added to 'save the PO' petitions

by KERRY GROVE

kgrove@london.newsquest.co.uk

The battle to save six of Kingston's post offices from closure won unanimous support from the council at a meeting last week.

The six-week consultation, which closed on Wednesday, April 2, was rounded off with a petition of almost 3,000 signatures being presented to the council by group editor of the Guardian series Sean Duggan.

Richmond Park MP Susan Kramer handed over a second petition of 2,000 signatures, on behalf of herself and Edward Davey, MP for Kingston and Surbiton, at the meeting on Tuesday, March 25.

The three main parties came together to condemn the proposed closures and agreed that the council should only investigate rescuing them after the final decision is made next month.

Council leader Councillor Derek Osbourne argued the closures would hit the most vulnerable people in the borough hardest.

He said: "There are so many places where the post office is key to the viability of the parade of shops."

Councillor Chrissie Hitchcock claimed the main post offices in Kingston and Surbiton would become significantly busier, causing even more discomfort for elderly people queueing.

The decision to close Plough Green, a profitable, large post office in Worcester Park, was labelled a "strategic nightmare" by Councillor Ian McDonald, because it was more popular than other nearby branches.

Opposition leader Councillor Howard Jones accepted the council would only be able to save services if a "financially-neutral" solution was found, so it does not hit council tax payers.

He added more "lateral thinking" was needed, and sub-postmasters could get training from the council to deliver more local services.

Stamp of approval: Guardian series group editor Sean Duggan with council leader Derek Osbourne

Poor rating due to form mistake

by PETER TRUMAN

ptruman@london.newsquest.co.uk

Maternity services at Kingston Hospital should not have received the lowest performance rating from the Healthcare Commission, after it emerged bosses had answered survey questions incorrectly.

The fiasco emerged last week at Kingston Council's health overview and scrutiny committee meeting.

The final, critical, Healthcare Commission report was based on a survey of mothers, a survey of staff, a questionnaire completed by the hospital and other data.

But in a report to the committee, Carole Heatly, the hospital's chief executive, admitted it had answered five of the questions in the questionnaire wrong.

Had the right information been supplied, the maternity service would have gone up a grade to "fair performing" in the report.

Councillor Mary Reid, who sits on the scrutiny panel, was incredulous that such a gaffe could occur.

She said: "It makes me wonder what kind of monitoring was done in the completion of the forms, which is so important in service confidence."

"How can it happen that five key answers were wrong and how do we know that's not going to happen again?"

"We're talking about patient confidence, which is as important as clinical services."

Coun Reid also criticised the report presented to the committee on Wednesday, March 26, saying it provided no answers.

Sylvia Kennedy, director of operations, apologised for the lack of detail in the report, citing short notice.

She added: "It's a very serious concern to us how we answered the questions. The chief executive, Carole Heatly, has asked us to conduct a full investigation as to how it was allowed to happen."

"We already had in place certain processes but these have been reviewed."

Flower thief is thwarted by CSO

A man who stole £230 of meat and flowers from a Tolworth store has been given a community rehabilitation order.

David Parsons entered the shop in Tolworth on Tuesday, February 26, at about 5.30pm and took the goods, but was caught on CCTV and later captured. During a routine patrol by the safer neighbourhood team (SNT), staff told them of the theft and the CCTV footage led them to Parsons' home in Browns Road, Surbiton, where he was arrested on Friday, February 29.

He appeared at Kingston Crown Court, where he pleaded guilty to theft and was given a community order with a three month curfew of 6am and 6pm.

Sergeant Lara Humphrey of Kingston's Alexander SNT said: "This is an excellent example of community support officers knowing their community well."

Early start for Breakfast Run

While most were struggling to come to terms with losing an hour's sleep, thousands marked British Summer Time by running 16 miles at 8am.

The Asics Kingston Breakfast Run saw 4,500 club and fun runners line up outside Kingston's Guildhall to run either the 8.2 or 16-mile course.

Seen as a great warm-up for the London Marathon, the run goes through Kingston's historic Market Place, over Kingston Bridge and along the Thames, back over Hampton Court Bridge and then down the Portsmouth Road to Kingston again.

Among the fun runners were Alastair Campbell, former aide to Tony Blair, a man dressed as a rhino and a man who completed the eight-mile course while skipping.

Toby Pearson won the men's eight-mile race, while Angela Hibbs won the women's race.

Spend council rent here: MP

kgrove@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingston Council's housing "crisis" could be discussed in Parliament this month, as Kingston and Surbiton MP Edward Davey fights to get a fairer deal for the borough's tenants.

Currently, 31p in every pound of rent is paid back to the Government through the Housing Revenue Account (HRA) subsidy and redistributed to other boroughs, instead of being spent on vital repairs here.

Mr Davey claimed this was "fundamentally unfair" and an "absolute disaster".

He is organising a debate with ministers in the House of Commons by the end of April.

He hopes ministers will change their policies and acknowledge that Kingston gets a raw deal from the current system.

He said: "It was the first question I asked Gordon Brown when he became prime minister and he wrote me a total brush-off letter."

"I want to put questions to ministers and find out if there is any leeway at all." Kingston Council is now questioning tenants over whether they would vote yes in a stock transfer ballot, despite it being refused twice before.

But Mr Davey claimed handing the borough's council properties over to a housing association would only be a "second choice" if the Government did not change the HRA subsidy system.

Thumbs away

Computer game fanatics will battle it out at Mercedes-Benz World in Weybridge on Saturday, April 12, to take home a Volkswagen convertible.

The event will be the final of a nationwide tournament for cult classic game Mario Kart, which will soon be released on the Nintendo Wii.

Anyone interested should head down to Game in the Bentall Centre in Kingston on Saturday, April 5, to participate in a heat.

Many different prizes will be available on the day, with the winners heading to the Weybridge race track in the hope of taking home the car, which is painted like a Kart from the popular game.

□ Buy next week's Surrey Comet for a chance to win a copy of Mario Kart Wii.

NEWSbrief

TROPHY VISIT: Football fans who dream of lifting the Barclays Premier League trophy will get a chance to fulfil their fantasy when it comes to the Bentall Centre for one day only. Complete with entourage of two guards, the trophy will be on display on Monday, April 7, from 9.30am to 5pm, with the chance to have your photo taken for free with the famous trophy.

BHF'S NEW LOOK: Surbiton's British Heart Foundation (BHF) shop has officially reopened its doors after undergoing a makeover. The charity shop in Victoria Road has new flooring, lights and signs and had an official opening on Thursday, March 27, by Mayor of Kingston Councillor Shiraz Mirza. To arrange a free collection of your unwanted goods, call the BHF shop on 020 8390 8562.

PLAYER BOUNCES IN: Former England basketball and Guinness World Record holder Martin Clark has moved to Surbiton to work as a financial adviser. Mr Clark works for financial services company Edward Jones and has joined its new office in St Mark's Hill. He still works as a basketball coach in Kingston and used to play for the Kingston Kings.

War games at memorial

The 2012 Olympics roadshow sprinted into action at Kingston War Memorial on Sunday, March 30.

More than 2,000 people tried out tests on hand-eye coordination, arm strength and how high they could jump, in the interactive exhibition.

The roadshow was opened by Mayor of Kingston Councillor Shiraz Mirza.

Local businesses also signed up to find out how they could get involved with the London games in 2012.

Boris: 'I'll move train stations if I'm elected'

London Mayoral hopeful Boris Johnson has vowed to rezone Kingston and Surbiton stations if he gets into power.

The campaign, led by Kingston and Surbiton MP Edward Davey, is now hoped to carry more weight – with two of the three main mayoral candidates backing it.

It leaves just Ken Livingstone, who continues to argue that he does not have the power to move Surbiton station from zone six to

by KERRY GROVE

kgrove@london.newsquest.co.uk

five and Kingston into zone six.

Mr Johnson said: "Kingston's commuters have been ignored by Ken Livingstone when it comes to the unfairness of their fares for too long."

"The Labour Mayor is too busy looking after his cronies and pet projects to concern himself with the fact that 23 train stations already in zone five are further away from their London terminus than either Surbiton or Kingston, while six other stations that are exactly the same distance from London are in zone five."

Although the Mayor has no direct control over over-ground rail fares, Mr Davey claimed he could put pressure on train companies.

He said: "The idea that the Mayor of London has nothing to do with rail is simply not true."

Sir Trevor trailblazes for trust involvement

by CHLOE LAMBERT

clambert@london.newsquest.co.uk

News at Ten journalist Sir Trevor McDonald is one of the first people to become a member of South West London and St George's (SWLSTG) Mental Health Trust.

Speaking from his home in East Sheen, Sir Trevor paid tribute to the "extraordinary work" done by mental healthcare workers, which he has seen first hand as patron of Barnes Hospital League of Friends.

He said: "The staff at Barnes Hospital are simply wonderful.

"I am always impressed with the way they strike up relationships with people.

"I put myself in their place and think, I could never do as well as they do."

He supported the trust's plans to become a foundation trust, in which local people, patients and carers have more of a say in how services are run, and backed the Kingston Guardian's campaign to raise awareness of mental health issues.

Sir Trevor, 68, said: "It's much better if there's local involvement. Mental health is something we do feel a little inhibited in talking about. It needs to be recognised as an illness and brought to the public's attention.

Support: Sir Trevor has paid tribute to mental healthcare workers

"As a journalist, I've seen cases of mental health in places such as eastern Europe and southern Africa and thought we could do better. A lot more is known about it now and how we can deal with it."

He encouraged more local people to sign up to support the SWLSTG trust.

He said: "You may not be able to spend a great deal of time. If you can just give a little, you can make a difference."

To find out more about becoming a member of the trust and shaping the future of mental health services in your area, call free on 0800 085 2597 or email membership@swlstg-tr.nhs.uk.

Championing nurse who initiated patient 'zoning'

A nurse who works with families of patients with psychosis in south London has been named Mental Health Nurse of the Year.

Catherine Gamble, a consultant nurse who works at Springfield Hospital, Tooting, was championed at a gala ceremony at the Royal Opera House in Covent Garden on Wednesday, March 27.

Ms Gamble won the award for introducing a traffic light system called zoning, which helps staff to prioritise high risk cases.

The pioneering system is now used by mental health teams in Wandsworth, Merton, Sutton, Richmond and Kingston, and it has been internationally recognised.

Staff use colours on a board to share information about a client's safety, with green indicating stable patients and red showing high risk or in crisis patients.

It has prevented clients from relapsing and improved the services they and their family receive.

Ms Gamble said: "This is not just about me. It is about the people I work with and the staff who have embraced zoning. But it was very humbling and a wonderful opportunity to put us on the map."

The prestigious award came from Nursing Standard, the weekly journal published by the Royal College of Nursing.

Arts input worthy of special recognition

A recreation worker on two psychiatric wards in Tolworth Hospital has been recognised by the Mayor of Kingston, Shiraz Mirza.

Each year, the mayor presents a small number of community awards to people outside the employment of the council. Adele Kempton is one of those deemed worthy of special recognition.

Adele has been the lead acute recreation worker for the last four years in Lilacs and Orchids wards in the hospital, where she arranges arts and crafts activities with the patients.

Adele said: "Working on the psychiatric wards has not always been easy but I have had many moments when I have been encouraged and see the pleasure that the patients get from attending these groups.

"I also know what it feels like to go through a mental health crisis and this has actually helped me empathise with the patients."

Adele has suffered from bipolar disorder for the past 20 years but has found by doing this work, her own illness has receded.

Beautiful or a hazard? This is what the modernist houses will look like

‘We see through plan for new glass houses’

by JOHANNA CARR

drankin@london.newsquest.co.uk

Controversial plans to build two revolutionary houses made almost entirely of glass in the conservation area of Coombe Hill in New Malden were given the go-ahead recently.

Construction of the modernist homes will start in the summer after Anna House, the existing property on the site, is demolished, but residents and some councillors are not happy.

They have said the houses are too big, too close together, will affect the water supply in the area and are not in keeping with the conservation area.

Terry Pawson Architects is the company behind the design of the two 6,000sq ft houses, which will symmetrically reflect each other and were labelled “beautiful” by the Kingston design review panel.

Councillor Patrick Codd, chairman of the Maldens and Coombe planning sub-committee, said not all the councillors on the committee were happy with giving permission to the project.

“Originally the scheme was opposed but there were no legitimate grounds on revised plans for refusing them,” he said.

Coun Codd added that there were also concerns from the committee and residents about the size of the houses – which he described as “massive” – and their proximity to each other.

He said: “There is barely a sixpence between them. If I was paying £3.4million, I’d want more garden.”

Residents of Coombe Hill Road also have concerns about water drainage and feared the homes could cause homes further down the hill to flood.

Local resident Ann Pearce said: “I think that it is absolutely appalling that they are going to affect the water course and I cannot see how they fit into the conservation area.”

The Coombe Hill conservation area was set up in 1996 to ensure that the character of the area was preserved or enhanced.

Queensbury ruler: Boxing champ Lerrone Richards, 15, is going from strength to strength

Deadlinepix KT20112

'You Khan be a boxing star'

New Malden boxing prodigy Lerrone Richards got his new boxing season off to a flying start earlier this month, by storming to victory in the 70kg category of the UKCYP Boxing Championship.

The 15-year-old took his number of victories to 18 out of 19 fights by defeating Jake Allen at Festival Hall in Kirby, scooping his fourth title and also picking up the best winner's trophy for his performance throughout the tourna-

Lerrone, who trains at the Repton Amateur Boxing Club in Bethnal Green twice a week, is due to compete in the Four Nations Championships in April for the second year running, boxing against the best 70kg fighters in his age group from Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

Proud father Martin

Richards, who introduced a six-year-old Lerrone to the sport by taking him to Kingston Boxing Club in Cambridge Road, said the 2012 Olympics was now well in his son's sights.

He said: "Lerrone might have gone to the Olympics this year but because of his age they are looking at him for 2012 now.

"They are rating him as good as Amir Khan and he's now actually surpassing Amir in terms of ability at his age.

"To see him box is a dream, flowing from one movement to the next. That's not just his father talking, that's top trainers like Tony Burns and trainers from other clubs rating him very highly."

Lerrone is still in need of sponsorship to get the best training and sports equipment – anyone wishing to help should contact Repton Boxing Club on 020 7739 3595 or email Martin at protocolsx@aol.com.

Church flat plans

Two of Surbiton's churches are set to get a million pound makeover in a bid to attract more people.

The "dilapidated" church halls at St Andrew's and St Mark's will be torn down, with a five-storey block of 32 flats planned for the St Mark's site in Church Hill Road.

The money from the sale would pay for restoration work on the churches, with new rooms and a church hall being built off St Mark's. A new scout hut would also be built at the St Andrew's site in Balaclava Road.

The cost of the project is estimated to run into millions, with work set to start in the autumn, if planning permission for the houses is granted in May.

LIDL PLANS: Plans to open a new Lidl supermarket in Chessington are being displayed at a public meeting on Monday, April 7.

As well as a chance to view the proposals for the store in Leatherhead Road, people can sample a selection of Lidl products. A company spokesman said: "The proposed site will be ideally situated to serve the needs of residents living in and around Chessington, bringing jobs and investment, as well as a much-needed alternative discount food store." The open day event will be held at the Castle Hill Primary School in Moor Lane, Chessington, from 2pm to 7pm.

BENTALL STARS: BBC television stars Charlie and Lola will be joining magicians, pirates and princesses to entertain visitors to the Bentall Centre this weekend.

The brother and sister puppets will visit the centre between 10am and 4.30pm on April 8, Professor Clump shows off his clown magic on April 9 between 9.30am and 5pm and a pirates and princesses workshop will be taking place on April 10.

Fraudster faces £2m bill

by MATT WATTS

mwatts@london.newsquest.co.uk

A man who took part in a £3.7million VAT fraud has been ordered to repay £2million of it or face a longer prison sentence.

Alexander Bell, of Burwood Road, Hersham, was the last of a group including his brother, Jonathan Bell, from Kingston, to find out how much he was going to repay.

He is currently serving a four-and-a-half year prison sentence after being found guilty in September 2006 of conspiracy to cheat

Bell, 44, appeared at Kingston Crown Court on Thursday, March 27, for a confiscation hearing and was ordered to pay back £2,358,564 he gained from the fraud.

He was given 18 months to pay back the money, or will face another eight years in prison.

The fraud involved computer chips being legally bought without VAT from Ireland and then sold on to other companies. Bell then sold on the chips and pocketed the VAT he charged for them.

Bell had an appeal against his conviction quashed in November at the Royal Courts of Justice. He had claimed there should have been a retrial after part of the indictment against him had been dropped during the original trial.

A spokesman for HM Revenue and Customs, which brought the conviction and confiscation order against Bell, said he would have to eventually make the payment or would face even more time in prison.

Six other men found guilty for their parts in the fraud were ordered to pay back a total of £1,526,436 in October 2007.

These included Bell's brother Jonathan Bell, of Fairfield South, Kingston, who was ordered to pay back £450,000, and John Palmer, of Oatlands Drive in Weybridge, who was ordered to pay back £125,000.

Magic moment for David Chipperfield

Leading architect David Chipperfield was presented with an honorary degree by Kingston University, in a ceremony at London's Royal Albert Hall on March 18.

The newly honoured doctor of design founded David Chipperfield Architects in 1984, and last year saw the company win the UK's most prestigious architectural award, the Royal Institute of Architects' Stirling Prize, for the Museum of Modern Literature in Marbach, Germany.

Rich reward for students

Brooklands College dance students performed their highly technical piece Broken Space at the annual RichDance event at Brooklands last weekend.

College dance lecturer Adrian Pavia said: "It was a wonderful opportunity for the students to perform at such a prestigious venue and it gave them a chance to put into practice the skills which they have been developing on the national diploma."

Why Choose Memory Foam?

If you wake every morning with a crick in your neck or stiff back, chances are your mattress is either too soft or too hard. Try a Memory Foam mattress which provides a sleep surface that conforms to your body weight and shape.

Is Memory Foam the Best Support for those Aching Joints?

When you take into consideration the amount of pressure you place on your shoulder and hips if you are a side sleeper, neck if you are a stomach sleeper or lower back if you are a back sleeper, you will realise that visco-elastic pressure sensitive foam will offer you the best chance for reducing the overall pressure placed on your joints by contouring them without pushing back against them.

- Moulds to your individual shape
- Relaxes your muscles and joints
- Supports neck, back, shoulders and legs
- Even weight and pressure distribution
- Unique Air Layer™ for added comfort
- Non allergenic and anti-bacterial
- Removable washable cover on certain models

Getting a head: Peter Harris with his birthday cake

Sculpture is a piece of cake

Keen sculptor Peter Harris had a 70th birthday to remember, when members of his pottery class surprised him with a cake fashioned in the shape of his latest project.

Colleagues from the pottery and model making class at the Malden Centre in Blagdon Road, New Malden, presented Mr Harris with the specially designed Rice Krispies and chocolate cake to commemorate his birthday on March 11.

Mr Harris, who has been on the course for 20 years, said: "I've never had anything like it before."

Already over-burdened residents could be hit with an extra £70 in council tax over the next three years, if Kingston Council's call to return landfill tax to local governments is ignored.

The Local Government Association has calculated that, if the money is not returned, local governments will be left with a £1.5billion deficit over the next three years.

Council leader Councillor Derek Osbourne said local residents would have to foot the bill in increased council tax if the Government did not agree to return landfill tax to local councils.

He said: "The landfill tax is clearly designed to encourage everyone to waste less and recycle more, but the current system is penalising cash-strapped councils which are having to pay the landfill tax and fund expensive waste reduction and recycling initiatives. Inevitably, the cost of this double burden is going to fall on local residents."

Kingston Council has joined with 80 other councils and written to Hilary Benn, Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, asking for reassurance the nationally collected tax would be returned to local government to pay for waste reduction and recycling initiatives.

In 2003, the Government promised landfill tax increases from 2005 onwards would be "revenue-neutral" to local authorities.

Up until now the money has been returned but the LGA said, despite repeated requests, the Government had failed to explain how it planned to do this for the next three years.

An LGA spokesman said: "They have not been able to point to it [the money] to our satisfaction and say where it is."

Since 2005, the money has been used by Kingston Council to improve recycling facilities in the borough.

The council said that it was essential that this continued to avoid £200million of European Union fines if the amount of waste sent to landfill was not reduced.

Rabbi Blue's rabbit-rabbit

A regular on Radio 4 in the mornings, Rabbi Blue will appear at the Rose Theatre for An Audience with Rabbi Blue on April 6, where he will put years of life-experience to use helping members of the public with their problems through a mixture of comedy and considered advice. He spoke to MIKE DIDYMUS

What can people expect from An Audience With Rabbi Blue?

I try to make them a little bit happier than when they came in – the first thing I like to do is have the lights up in the theatre so I can see their faces and get an idea of what type of audience is there and what they want of me.

I do most of the talking but in the second part of the second session I tell people that's their time and they can ask me anything they like, about politics, sexuality, economics or anything.

What sort of questions do ## you usually get?

Usually they share problems and often they are spiritual questions – things like how do I know I'm on the right path with my religion?

One thing religion does help with is seeing your problems inside-out. Instead of being negatives they can be pluses.

If I'd had no problems I would probably have become a rather aggressive businessman.

How did becoming a Rabbi go down with your family?

I remember ringing my mother from Baliol College in Oxford and telling her and there was a long pause – I thought she was overcome with emotion but the next thing she said was that I must have done it to spite them.

She wanted to know why, when she and my father had worked their fingers to the bone to help me succeed, I was doing this to them.

It wasn't the kind of scene I'd envisaged.

How do you find doing Thought For The Day on Radio 4?

When I was first asked to do it I thought there'd been a mistake about the colour and they were looking for a Rabbi Green.

When I speak I try to imagine the people I'm talking to, perhaps they are shouting blue murder in a traffic jam so you've got to get through to them somehow, you can't give them a normal service.

The news can be the hardest thing – I have a script but I can't always stick to it.

If there's been a tragedy in the news just before you come on with a comedy talk sometimes you just have to think on your feet and change it.

On a bend

People in Chessington are still concerned about a stretch of road known as “suicide corner”, after the council failed to agree how to best improve safety.

The bend in Parbury Rise was one of a number of roads around Chessington North station which were the subject of a consultation with residents over the problem of commuter parking.

Council officers suggested extending double yellow lines to increase the visibility on the corner but this gained little support.

One resident spoke of hearing “screeching brakes” and said extending the lines would make “no difference” to the problem. Some have said fewer parked cars would encourage drivers to speed.

Waltzing to new home?

Surbiton’s longest-running dance school could soon be homeless, putting its future in jeopardy.

The Margaret Barnes School of Dance turns 100 this year but it has been told that its current home in Claremont Hall, Surbiton, will most likely close in July.

Claremont Hall was purpose-built as a dance school by Margaret Barnes’ grandmother in the 1920s. It has a sprung dance floor, much-loved by the group.

The hall was sold to St Raphael’s Church in the 1950s and has been rented back to the group ever since.

The church has now drafted in chartered surveyor Nightingale Page Hickman and Bishop, based in Surbiton, to find a buyer.

Although it has not yet been confirmed what will happen to the building, the church has insisted it will not be demolished.

The school teaches ballet and jazz dance to 150 pupils aged three to 18 and classes are taught five days a week.

School principal Margaret Barnes said: “It is a pity because it has been used by many local people over the years. I now teach the grandchildren of some former pupils. We have a very loyal following.”

Claremont Hall hosted ballroom dances for servicemen during World War II, to serve as a morale booster for returning soldiers.

Ms Barnes is appealing for help in finding new premises. Call 020 8390 1953.

Drug plans criticised

by JAMES WHITE

drankin@london.newsquest.co.uk

Government plans to withdraw benefits from persistent drug users have been criticised by the head of the award-winning Kaleidoscope drug abuse charity in Kingston.

Reverend Martin Blakebrough said the plans – essentially a three-strikes-and-you’re-out policy for people who fail in treatment programmes – were a “headline grabbing statement with no substance beneath it”.

He added: “The policy won’t work because it would cost more money to administer than it would to actually run.

“It would probably create more crime and at the very least would mean more people on the streets.”

Under the scheme, suspension of benefits could be for two weeks, four weeks or 26 weeks if people continually fail to turn up.

Mr Blakebrough said proposals would be a step backwards and he urged ministers to continue with the good work done by the National Treatment Agency (NTA), an arm of the Government, in improving retention.

He said: “It puts more pressure on agencies to provide better services that are more conducive to the clients’ needs, which have increased retention.

“For once, the Government has actually had some success and it is trying to ruin that success by adding on an unworkable policy.”

Mr Blakebrough also raised concerns that the lack of treatment centres increased the likelihood of a patient no-show, with patients being forced to commute long distances to receive treatment.

London & Equal Pay A message from Action 4 Equality

Low pay is widespread in London

London’s 32 councils routinely pay women workers less than men - despite the fact that this is unlawful

Traditional male jobs (refuse workers and gardeners) are paid more than traditional female jobs - such as carers, catering workers and classroom assistants

Typically, the female jobs are paid £6 or £7 per hour while the male jobs are paid £9 or £10 per hour - only the male jobs receive big bonuses which are kept hidden from women workers

If you work in a predominantly female job, you are likely to have a sizeable claim - worth up to six years back pay plus interest

Action 4 Equality has a proven track record of success and thousands of satisfied clients - we’re not in bed with the employers and tell people what they need to know

Here are a few illustrative examples

Your pay	Male Comparator	Back pay Claim	Who can claim?
£13,500	£19,500	£40,320	Cleaners, Catering Workers, Home Carers and Day Carers, Cooks and Supervisors, Office/Admin Staff and Classroom Assistants + many more.
£10,000	£15,000	£33,600
£7,500	£11,250	£25,200	How do I make a claim? You can make a claim on a ‘No Win, No Fee’ basis with Action 4 Equality London
£4,400	£6,200	£12,096

The Big Picture

- ❑ A chunk of ice the size of the Isle of Man has started to break away from Antarctica, in what scientists believe is further evidence of a warming climate.

The Wilkins Ice Shelf has been stable for most of the last century but satellite images suggest that part of the shelf is disintegrating.

Professor David Vaughan, from the British Antarctic Survey, said: "Wilkins is the largest shelf on the Antarctic Peninsula yet to be threatened – the shelf is hanging by a thread. We'll know in the next few weeks what its fate will be."

ECONews

SPRING CLEAN: Visitors to the Shepperton recycling facility now have more time to go green as it extends its opening hours over the summer.

The Community Recycling Centre will be open from 8am to 5.15pm Monday to Friday, and from 9am to 4pm on Saturday and Sunday.

The site will accept old plastic garden furniture and garden waste just in time to spruce up your garden.

WE'RE GREENER: Workers in London are greener than those in the rest of Britain. They have an average footprint of 5.18 tonnes of carbon dioxide per year, compared with 25 tonnes per employee in the north-east, 10.32 tonnes in Scotland and 18.55 tonnes in Wales, according to research by Base business forum, which advises firms on sustainability. The findings were based on Government data.

Garden for birds and wake up to a spirit-lifting dawn chorus

by PETER TRUMAN

ptruman@london.newsquest.co.uk

More needs to be done to stop the fall in bird numbers, the RSPB warned as it released the results of its Big Garden Birdwatch.

Top of the list of birds in Kingston was the starling, with an average of almost four per garden.

In second came the house sparrow, with 2.54 per garden, while the woodpigeon was third, with 2.37 per garden.

While there was little change in the top 10 species spotted, there was concern that the survey showed a continuing decline in numbers of the most common birds.

Tim Webb, spokesman for RSPB London, said: "What these figures tell us is that Kingston has a remarkable range of garden birds, with more than 30 different species found.

"But we are concerned at the continuing fall in the number of starlings and house sparrows. These are our most common birds but they're vanishing, mostly as a result of a lack of food and shelter."

More than 17 per cent of land in Kingston is made up of private gardens and the RSPB urged garden owners to manage their garden to help wildlife by growing plants that provide both food and shelter.

Tim Webb added: "Having birds flit past your windows and insects buzzing round your flowerbeds is what it's all about.

"Waking up to the dawn chorus raises the spirits and I find watching wildlife incredibly relaxing after the stress of working and travelling in

Concern: Starlings and house sparrows are vanishing, mostly as a result of a lack of food and shelter, but the blackbird is a climber from eighth to fifth place this year

"Gardening for wildlife is rewarding when you see the results of your labours; it's also a good physical workout and you can grow your own food."

More than 20,000 Londoners took part in the RSPB's annual survey across 14,000 gardens on January 26 and 27.

Headway

Nearly 20 per cent less waste has been sent to landfill since 2001, according to the Environment Agency.

Martin Brocklehurst, head of external programmes at the organisation, said: "Over 15.5 million tonnes of waste was diverted from landfill and into recycling between 2001 and 2006."

Show manual skills and artistic streak

Volunteers are wanted to help with some exciting projects at the Knollmead permaculture site in Surbiton on Sunday, March 30.

Brambles need to be cut out and roots dug up at the site, designed 17 years ago to combine gardening and nature conservation.

The wild flower meadow will be cleared and restored back to its original size.

There are also plans to create a living willow sculpture of a horse in the new children's area.

Those with artistic flair are asked to contribute ideas for the design of a shelter using giant bamboo, hazel and willow grown on site.

Volunteers should wear stout footwear, gloves and bring along secateurs and other gardening equipment. Tea and biscuits are provided and bikes are allowed on site.

Work starts at noon.

Boris: I'll axe Ken paper to plant trees

Things could be a lot leafier in the capital if Conservative Mayoral candidate Boris Johnson is elected.

Mr Johnson has pledged to plant 10,000 street trees across London by the end of his term if voted into power.

The £1million project would be funded by the cancellation of Mayor Ken Livingstone's current publication The Londoner.

Boris Johnson said: "In the last few years, a third of boroughs have seen a decline in the number of street trees – the Mayor has done nothing to reverse this trend.

"Trees give the capital its identity as one of the world's greenest cities. But these trees are not distributed equally around the capital.

"Many London streets, particularly in deprived areas, have no street trees at all. Why should those streets with more expensive houses get trees when others do not?"

On average, his scheme would plant 250 trees in each area and all 40 areas would have trees planted by the end of the four-year Mayoral term.

Londoners would be able to vote on the Greater London Authority (GLA) website to determine the order in which areas are planted.

No progress on 'suicide corner' road

A stretch of road known as "suicide corner" continues to be a safety worry after councillors failed to agree on how best to reduce the danger.

Just stop people parking on the inside of the bend. Not hard is it. What else can you do? Knock down houses and make it straight? I've never had a problem there myself though. It's not exactly a busy road is it?

How about they concentrate on resurfacing a few roads round Chessington, so when you hit the brakes, you don't slide along on gravel.

Glowing report on Hook Centre fails to impress leader

The Hook Centre has received a glowing report a year after it controversially opened.

It's an eyesore and totally out of place. The cafe always seems to be shut! Library size and number of books available are pathetic.

Old library had far more choice.

Cris, Chessington

Students in uproar against railings

Days of sitting by the river supping a pint may be numbered for students of Kingston University's Knights Park campus who are in "uproar" at the installation of ugly grey safety gates along their prized river wall.

Tear them down! Maybe next time they'll stop treating students like children!

I'm sorry for building this addict-attracting centre

All's unwell in royal land

What a poor state of affairs we have reached for the residents of the Royal borough.

In the last few weeks I have learned that my council tax bill has again gone up above the rate of inflation and is still the highest in London and one of the highest in the country. I then learned that my local post office (which always seems to be busy when I visit it) is under threat of closure. A great inconvenience.

Finally, I learn that our so-called "green" council wants to scrap my weekly bin collection and make me leave my rubbish out for two weeks instead.

As a single person, I can probably manage this without too great a problem but, from stories I have heard from elsewhere, I dread to think how a family of four or five will manage. On top of this, I live in a flat which has no recycling service whatsoever and, frankly, has little room for the necessary facilities to be provided.

My local recycling centre (a short walk away) disappeared a couple of years ago and I now need to use the car if I wish to deposit items in any sort of useful quantity. So much for sustainability.

Oh yes, I also have a road full of potholes.

From the opinion polls it appears that we may be set for a change of Mayor on May 1. Let's hope that Boris can at least help in reducing our council tax bills a bit next year.

To the people of Kingston, this is the first time I've ever written to a paper.

I have been a builder now for 24 years. In that time I have been proud of my work, commercial or private.

I work mostly in London and have only recently moved back to the area.

I have just read your front page about the growing drug problem in your town.

Mr Blakebrough of the Kaleidoscope drug centre is saying how worrying it is that drugs are coming into Kingston in one way or another. He seems to blame anything and everything except the fact that his centre attracts hundreds of addicts to this town.

At the beginning I said I was proud of my building work.

Looking at Kingston as it is today, not only I am glad my teenage son doesn't go to school in Kingston, but also glad he doesn't go to Kingston to meet his mates, knowing that 250 addicts a week go there.

I don't mean any offence to the people of Kingston, far from it.

I am ashamed to say that for a solid nine months I was part of a team that helped build that centre.

That's bad enough, but to read that this centre is still getting funding from Kingston; when does that money tap get turned off?

All I can say is sorry, sorry for building something that is completely changing the look and feel of a smashing town.

Who will take responsibility for 250 addicts?

Re the front page of your Guardian March 20.

Sadly I am getting used to reading negative stories of drug cases, drug busts and drug dealers coming to this town with drugs on their persons etc.

The most sickening thing

I have read so far is how there are over 250 drug addicts coming to Kingston, and, according to a Mr Blakebrough, it's the fault of the night clubs - also the "police are great but could do more".

Reading this man's views makes my skin crawl.

Read between the lines and he wants even more of Kingston people's money to help spread his group to other parts of this poor town.

Drugs coming to Kingston, dealers coming to this town, addicts making parts of north Kingston no-go areas... nothing to do with a centre that attracts 250 addicts a week to my town then?

NAME AND ADDRESS

Make your voices heard about the state of streets

I am writing to complain about the state of the streets in the borough. Covered in litter, broken pavements, dreadful attempts at horticulture and collapsing roads - and yet the council has money to spend on wood posts outside the houses in Burlington Road. How unattractive and what on earth for? Surely yellow and red lines are there to prevent parking.

I am sick of trying to get a response from the council, especially about bad areas of litter.

They are either unobtainable or, if you do get hold of someone, they say they will deal with it but nothing happens.

I am sickened by the amount of money that has been wasted on building and re-building and re-building New Malden High Street. Are we totally incapable of building roads anymore?

I am sickened by the terrible horticulture in the borough. In Kingston town centre there are constantly damaged brick planters full of ugly, dried up shrubs along with the lovely green mouse/rat trap boxes.

They have pulled a few bushes up this year mainly because they looked dead and haphazardly stuck in a few pansies, but quite honestly what happened to the English pride in gardening?

There are some very obvious areas in the borough which are constantly covered in litter, so why are they not more regularly targeted? What is needed are more men with those grab sticks - the trucks that run along the curb with swirling brushes are useless, half the time they can't get near the kerb because of parked cars and when they do they swirl most of the rubbish round and chuck it over the pavement.

If anyone reading this agrees with me, make your voice heard either to the paper or to the council or, better still, to both.

Roadworks have made matters worse Spread Olympic costs

At last the roadworks to the A3, where the Malden Road between New Malden and Worcester Park crosses the A3, has finished. Sadly, as half expected, it is worse than it was. Incidentally, I'm no nimby, having commuted to central London for 30 years plus by train, car motor bike and bicycle, the latter for 10 years-plus.

Firstly, the surface that I imagine was the basic reason for the work, is poor, being initially rough. I assume the project manager was concentrating on the alleged "improvements" that he did not worry about the surface too much. One can only hope this poor workmanship is not reflected in the longevity of the surface.

As for the other things, the lane marking is poorly thought out and inefficient as well as possibly dangerous and the road signs a mess. Currently the lanes are largely ignored and we will have to await the locals getting used to the changes but the problems are becoming clear.

I suspect my son is right, the best solution, though not perfect, is traffic lights like Tolworth. If not possible, do nothing.

The new system does not formally allow the problem of the evening rush to be handled efficiently. Usually there is a static queue around the roundabout blocking traffic, from the slip road from off the A3 going south, from turning left into Malden Road towards Worcester Park and Cheam etc. Prior to the changes, this was partly alleviated by traffic from New Malden going down the A3 to the south being able to hug the inside lane near the roundabout to avoid the queue of traffic. Under the new marking scheme this is no longer legal. It will clearly, luckily, be widely ignored.

Ah well, it's only taxpayers' money!

We have just received our rates bill for 2008/9 and were very surprised (and upset) to find that our 38p weekly charge for the Olympics is to be paid for seven more years, plus £9 in the final year 2016/17.

I think we were always under the impression that the 38p would only be expected from rate payers until the actual Olympics 2012, so are very dissatisfied to realise that it isn't to be.

As it is, we feel that the rest of this country should be contributing to the cost of the Olympics, not just we people in the London area.

Cancelled train? Then get on your bike

Once in a while I travel by South West Trains (SWT) from Norbiton to go to London. Last week, after buying a ticket I found that the train I wanted had been cancelled.

With the train drivers now threatening strike action next week, I'm wondering why commuters put up with this level of service? For me the best alternative is to use my bicycle.

It never lets me down and hardly costs me a penny to run.

A double celebration

by PETER TRUMAN

ptruman@london.newsquest.co.uk

Twins who both worked as printers at the Surrey Comet celebrated their 80th birthdays at a ceremony on Sunday, March 30.

Ken and Len Stokes were surrounded by children and grandchildren at the Horton Park Country Club in Epsom as they celebrated a joint age of 160.

Len joined the composing room of the Surrey Comet in 1951, before his brother Ken followed suit and became a linotype operator in 1971.

Len said: "It was all hot metal in our day and now of course it's all computerised."

"It was a good day's work with

Happy birthday: Ken and Len Stokes with family and friends

Deadlinepix KT20090

the hot metal but I enjoyed the life there and I did not want to leave."

Ken added: "I had a good time and worked hard but you had to in those days to get a good wage."

Both left in 1979 and had stints at

The Times, The Sunday Times, The Express, The Telegraph, and The Mirror newspapers in Fleet Street.

Despite being twins, Ken and Len have different birthdays, with Len being born on April 1 and Ken born a day after.

They both grew up in Long Ditton and went to school in Thames Ditton before joining the armed forces.

Ken was a dispatch rider in the Royal Signals and served in Cairo. Len was in the Royal Navy serving in the Mediterranean on Palestine Patrol.

Club bids fond farewell to lifelong fan

Stalwart Kingstonian Audrey Webster was honoured with a minute's silence before a Kingstonian FC v Leatherhead match on Monday, March 24.

A lifelong Ks supporter and patron, she started attending Kingstonian matches as a little girl with her father and continued up until a few months ago at the age of 87.

Audrey was well-known at Kingsmeadow and assisted the club after her husband's death in June 1999.

Her much adored husband, Jimmy Webster, played for the club from 1945 to 1950 and was president at the time of his death, aged 77.

Audrey would often watch

Jimmy play.

Former Kingstonian chairman Jimmy Cochrane said: "She was a tough old bird. An all-round good sort of person."

"She was a big influence and a great help to me both during and after my time at the club."

He recalled a moment when George Borg, described as one of the most successful non-league managers to date, was swearing loudly in front of her and she turned to look at him sternly. "Calm down your language young man," she said. He was quite taken aback but immediately silenced.

Audrey was born into the French family, an institution at Kingston Market. Their presence on the market's fish stalls stretches back 140 years. Her parents used a horse and cart to sell fish around the streets.

They were one of six wet fish families with stalls there and Audrey had a central role, with a 3am visit to the wholesalers every morning to select the best catches to sell on the stall.

Between the 1960s and 1980s, Audrey and Jimmy worked hard to build up the Webster's empire, opening six shops as far as Orpington and Bracknell. At least two are still going strong.

Audrey Webster (maiden name French) died Thursday, March 20, at the age of 87. She leaves behind son Peter and daughter Laura.

Musical youth

The grimy, disease-ridden streets of Victorian London will fill the Rose this week when Kingston's very own musical, The Ragged Child, returns to the stage.

First performed in 1986 by Tiffin School pupils, the show highlights the hardships suffered by youngsters during the era and work undertaken to improve conditions.

Co-writer of the play, Frank Whatley, returns to direct this new take on the show. And he explains how the project originally came into being.

He says: "It was around about 1985, approaching the centenary of the death of the great reformer, Lord Shaftesbury.

"We were commissioned to write songs to mark the event but, as we were researching it, I thought there was a fantastic story in there. So David Nield, Jeremy James Taylor and I created a piece of musical theatre about the Ragged School Union."

Whatley admits he had little idea the production would prove such a success. But the 1986 performance, which starred then Tiffin pupil Jonny Lee Miller, was a resounding hit.

Whatley continues: "We toured the country then went to Riverside Studios and recorded a version, which was put out on BBC on Christmas Eve in 1989.

"After that, we did productions on and off throughout the 90s."

Whatley, who is also Head of School,

THEATRE: The Ragged Child, Rose Theatre, Kingston

Simon Fitzjohn

Performance and Screen Studies at Kingston University, was heavily involved in the launch of the Rose. And he reveals his association with Kingston's spectacular new venue has paid dividends.

He adds: "We were discussing the opening season and I decided to get the same team back together and make a new production.

"The older members of the cast come from Kingston University and the younger members from local schools."

Despite being originally written in 1986, and being set in 1849, Whatley insists the musical holds as much resonance today as it did then.

And he is confident the modern audience will find plenty to keep them enthralled.

He concludes: "There is still concern about social issues and they are reflected in the work.

"It has been so exciting coming back to it and, overall, it has been a fantastic experience.

"Bringing it to the Rose seems the perfect place."

Class act: Eleanor Turner and Rowena Calvert

CLASSICAL: The Calvert-Turner
Duo, Riverhouse, Walton
Simon Fitzjohn

Award-winning duo Eleanor Turner and Rowena Calvert will be getting the Riverhouse's new season of Lunchtime Concerts off to a flying start when they bring their sumptuous cello and harp combination to Walton.

Harpist Turner and cellist Calvert have been performing together since 2003 and last year released their debut album, El Piano Moruno.

Turner reveals how the duo came to work together. She says: "We have a wonderful mutual friend who knew us both well but we had never actually met. "There were a few pieces I was really keen to play and I asked my friend if she could recommend any good cellists and she suggested Rowena.

years older than me, would always be playing it. "When I got a bit older, we would start fighting over who was going to play so my mum decided to get me an instrument so we could play together. She hired a small harp and found me a teacher and the rest is history."

The duo will be performing a unique set, with work ranging from Mozart to Ravi Shankar. And Turner insists surprises are in store.

She concludes: "There will be quite funky and unusual stuff mixed in with the familiar. "It will be a lot of fun."

GIGS: Katriona Taylor, Ram Jam Club
Simon Fitzjohn

London jazz favourite Katriona Taylor returns to the local scene this month to give fans a sneak preview of her third album.

Entitled Precious Time, its release in May will be the end of a long road for Taylor in terms of getting the project to fruition. And the distinctive vocalist is delighted to be hitting the road. She says: "I have spent the past three months readying the album so it will be great to get it out there. "It is all original material, which is a bit different for me. It's a mix of jazz and latin grooves with a bit of soul."

Taylor has built a burgeoning reputation thanks to wowing audiences with her versatile style that includes influences such as Nina Simone and Diana Krall. And she admits the crowd reaction has been a driving force.

Taylor says: "The new album is stuff I have been gigging for quite a while. "Audiences like variety so I would throw in a few of my own numbers. then people would come up after gigs and say how much they loved those songs. That gives you a real boost."

Despite basing a lot of her sets on covers, Taylor is eager to blaze her own trail in the jazz community. And she insists it is that attitude which will ensure longevity.

She concludes: "I do what I feel like doing and then give it my personal touch. "You have to perform what you want - it is very important to stay true to that."

Katriona Taylor Quartet, Ram Jam Club, Kingston, 9 April, 8pm, tickets £9, call 020 85415328.

Rabble Rouser

It is a given that in any classroom, you will find at least one character who considers themselves the 'class joker'.

Though, 99.9 per cent of the time, that will be a pupil and not the teacher.

Enter Rob Rouse – a "reformed" former geography teacher who is now celebrating his tenth year in the stand-up business. And the Macclesfield-born comic admits it has been an unusual path to fame.

He says: "I originally got into teaching because I thought it sounded fun but that was a bit of a mistake.

"A few mates roped me into doing a local charity gig so I went away and wrote some stuff that I thought was funny. When I was on stage, something just clicked and, for the first time in my life, I found something that was me."

After heading to Edinburgh to win the 1998 So You Think You're Funny Award

COMEDY: Rob Rouse, Kingsmeadow,

Simon Fitzjohn

at the world-famous festival, Rouse has embarked on a successful career that has seen numerous TV appearances alongside the likes of Jimmy Carr and Bill Bailey.

And Rouse admits he is still living the dream: "To be 10 years on from starting out and still be doing a job I love that is always different – I could not ask for more."

Rob is having to spin numerous plates at present as, along with writing a new character-based sketch show for ITV2, he recently celebrated the birth of his first child, Lenny. And he agrees his priorities have taken a dramatic turn.

He adds: "It is just the biggest thing that has ever happened to me. It really turns your world upside-down and inside-out."

Between changing nappies and warming milk, Rob answered a few of our teasers:

SF: What's the most difficult – standing in front of a class of kids or an audience?

RR: Working with kids, definitely. The worst thing that could happen at a gig is that people don't laugh or you just fall flat on your arse.

But, when you're in the classroom, you know you have those kids' futures in your hands – that's terrifying!

SF: Any secret talents?

RR: I've managed to turn my hand at plumbing. We were having to get the house ready for the baby and the bog needed fixing so I gave it a go – and it hasn't leaked yet!

SF: Is there any sketch you wish you had written?

RR: Monty Python's Life of Brian – it's incredible!

SF: What's the best heckle you have heard?

RR: I was doing a gig in Luton and was a bit out of my depth. This woman asked, "Is this going anywhere?" I think I replied, "I don't know," and got bottled off-stage!

The many-differing landscapes of the world come into focus at Fountain Gallery this week when the work of local artists Mandana Khonsari and Lucinda Stephen are exhibited in Two Perspectives.

The display, which features 15 pieces from each artist, is part of a series of widely differing works set to illuminate the East Molesey gallery over the coming months.

While Stephen concentrates on urban landscapes, structures and architecture, Khonsari opts for a more nature-based approach, choosing to focus on the land itself.

She explains: "I usually paint landscapes based on the places I have visited.

"I always give the paintings ambiguous names, though, because as soon as I say where it is meant to be, it becomes a letdown for anybody who has actually been there!"

Iranian-born Khonsari moved to London in 1977 and is now based in Putney.

And her friendship and working relationship with Stephen has lasted the test of time.

She adds: "I was in an arts class with Lucinda back in the mid-80s and we have been in touch ever since.

"The reason why we are working

EXHIBITIONS: Two Perspectives, Fountain Gallery, East Molesey

together on this project is that they are completely different angles on the same theme.

"While they are different styles, they are still based on landscapes in their own way so that is why they are able to complement each other."

Khonsari took the gamble of quitting her full-time job to pursue a career in painting back in 2000. And, while she readily admits things have not been easy, she remains convinced it was a gamble that has paid off handsomely. She concludes:

"Artists always struggle but the last couple of years have been pretty good.

"I do not make a lot of money but I do break even and that is enough for me to continue."

WANTED! TRAINEE PLUMBERS

Due to serious skill shortages we need practical, keen applicants to take around 70 days intensive City & Guilds plumber and NIC gas training usually around current commitments and to then join one of our associated plumbing and construction companies. On fully completing the training course you become a full City & Guilds Qualified Plumber and can also apply for Corgi Registration and be one of the UK's highest qualified new plumbers.

No previous plumbing experience is necessary. You train at our £2m, state-of-the-art Building Trade Skills Centre for Southern England near London which, at 45,000sq.ft, is the largest in Europe. Training is subject to an interview and contribution towards subsidised training. This is an exceptional opportunity for you to gain a lifetime skill in plumbing with guaranteed employment on fully qualifying. Plumbers on average now earn £25,485 a year but, with experience, income could rise to up to £40,000 a year.

Great news from Twickenham Volkswagen

The latest star in the stable, the Tiguan, has kept the team busy

The team at Twickenham Volkswagen is delighted to learn that its recent excellent showing in customer satisfaction surveys has placed them sixth across Volkswagen's UK retail network in all aspects of the dealership's operation, from sales to parts and service.

Customer experiences are regularly monitored by Volkswagen in order to keep track of how the UK retailer network is performing.

Twickenham Volkswagen achieved an outstanding Customer Service Index (CSI) rating, but Sanjay Pathak, retailer principal, says: "It's great news for us and we hope excellent news for our customers."

"I would like to thank them for their support, and our team for all their hard work. However, we won't be resting on our laurels as maintaining our high standard is an ongoing process."

Right now, Volkswagen's latest star is keeping the sales team very active.

The Tiguan compact 4x4 has received enviable reviews in the motoring press and is proving to be highly popular.

Twickenham Volkswagen is currently showcasing the Tiguan with one in the showroom and another demonstrator readily available for test drive purposes.*

Twickenham Volkswagen has exciting offers on selected 08-plate models right across the Volkswagen range, where it will provide three year's/30,000 miles free servicing* up until the end of March.

Twickenham Volkswagen's skilled technicians are entering into an exciting competition against other Inchcape Volkswagen retailers in the Golf GTi Challenge.

They are buying an elderly 'L'-plated Volkswagen Golf GTi, rebuilding it and once work is completed, the car will be raced in competition around a track against other GTis during the GTi Festival in July.

The budget is just £1,500! The Golf will then be auctioned and money received above £1,500 will be given to a charity of the technicians' choosing.

* Test drives and three year's free servicing/30,000 miles offer – (whichever comes first) subject to terms and conditions.

New string to Romero's bow

Multi-talented Rebecca Romero is eyeing Olympic gold after clinching cycling's world individual and team pursuit titles in Manchester last week.

The 28-year-old ex-Kingston Rowing Club member swapped rowing for the velodrome two years ago after winning a silver medal at the 2004 Olympics and gold at the 2005 World Championships.

The British Olympic Association confirmed she would become the first British female summer Olympian to win medals in two different sports if she made it to the podium in Beijing.

Romero beat world champion Sarah Hammer to take individual gold on Thursday, before joining forces with Cheam-based 19-year-old Jo Rowsell and Wendy Houvenaghel to take the team title on Friday.

Casuals gee-up

Assistant boss Keith Holloway has warned his Corinthian Casuals players they are playing for their King George's Field futures.

With their Ryman League Division One South status all but secured, Holloway admitted there was a temptation to take the foot off the gas.

But he insisted anyone adopting that approach could find themselves on the scrapheap.

"We do not want to finish the season with a whimper we want to finish with a bang," he said after Saturday's clash with Walton & Hersham fell victim to the weather. "A strong finish will throw a different light on what players we need for next season."

"We will be giving a few players games here and there and it is up to them to impress."

Last roll of dice for Dowson

by STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingstonian manager Alan Dowson is taking a gamble on a midfielder he has not seen play to give his injury-ravaged side's play-off push a boost.

Dowson signed Gary Noel from Millwall of League One on a dual registration deal with Blue Square Premier side Grays Athletic after Ks' 1-1 draw at Cray Wanderers on Sunday.

Noel, who can also play as a striker, comes in for the departed Shawn Beveney and is one of two signings made at the weekend, with Dartford winger Phil Williams joining until the end of the season.

Ks were without influential midfielder Gavin Cartwright, skipper Simon Sobihy and Nick Rundell on Sunday, while Neil Lampton (shoulder) and Simon Huckle (dead leg) played through the pain barrier.

Dowson, who hailed his side's fighting spirit, admitted playing Noel would be a risk, but one he was prepared to take.

"Gary can play in midfield or as a centre-forward. Millwall reserve team boss Joe Gallen recommended him highly and I trust his judgement," he said.

"It is a gamble because I haven't seen him play, but it is calculated.

"With the injuries we have got at the moment, I am so proud of the boys.

"I have to take my hat off to Simon and Neil because neither should have played at the weekend.

"Jason Turley should not have played after six weeks out either, but that shows the character we have in this squad."

Dowson delivered a team talk to remember on Sunday as Dean Lodge's second-half strike ensured a point against kept Ks in touch with the play-off chase.

An inspired display from keeper Luke Garrard had kept Ks in the match.

Dowson said: "Luke put in the best performance I have seen from any keeper all season. It could have been 6-0 at half-time.

"I tore into the players. I don't think they understood what I was saying, I was swearing so much, but it seemed to have the right effect.

"It will be disappointing if we don't make the play-offs now.

"The race is out of our hands, but I am sure there will be some twists and turns to come.

Rough ride: New Malden's Tom Onslow-Cole, inset, pushes his Vectra VXR to the limit at Brands Hatch on Sunday

Tom off to a bumpy start

New Malden's Tom Onslow-Cole made a mixed start to his VX Racing career at Brands Hatch last weekend, writes Jasmin Muller.

The 20-year-old finished seventh and sixth in the first two races to qualify fourth for race three.

Setting off in his Vectra VXR with confidence high, Onslow-Cole was in the wrong place when Seat's Jason Plato and Honda's Gordon Shedden, being nudged off the track and into the barrier at Graham Hill Bend.

"I am feeling a bit sore but I am okay. Overall, it has been a good weekend and I am feeling quite comfortable in the team now," he said.

"We found a lot of pace in the car and it is looking good for the rest of the season."

SPORTSbrief

FOOTBALL: Kingstonian will learn their Surrey Senior Cup fate on Thursday after being summoned to a Surrey FA hearing, along with representatives from Tooting & Mitcham. Ks defeated the Terrors 4-0 in the semi-finals but have been charged with fielding an ineligible player.

Football latest: yourlocalguardian.co.uk

RUGBY UNION: Kingston will be hoping for an improved display when they take on Old Emanuel in the Surrey Shield final at Imber Court on Sunday. With promotion to London Four South West secured and a cup decider on their minds, Ks were below par last weekend, going down 14-5 at London Exiles.

Match report: yourlocalguardian.co.uk

RUGBY UNION: Old Emanuel, in contrast, go into the match in superb form, having dispatched Law Society 25-0 in their Surrey Two clash. James Pickles, Craig Higgins and Arran Cowell scored tries.

Match report: yourlocalguardian.co.uk

HOCKEY: Surbiton broke a run of five successive Slazenger EHL National Premier Division defeats with a shock 3-2 win at Cannock last Sunday. James Wallis, Andrew Sheridan and Tim Pinnock scored for Surbiton, who end their season at home to Hampstead & Westminster on Sunday (2pm).

FREE REACTIONS

Buy any pair of glasses from our £75 range or above and have them fitted with Reactions photochromic lenses at no extra charge – a saving of £49. Reactions lenses are ideal for the British summer. They react to light: in sunlight they darken in seconds to reduce the strain on your eyes, but indoors – or if the dark clouds return – they lighten again quickly. They are available in grey or brown tints.
